POLICE UNIFORMS ON THE STAGE.

Our Kilkenny Correspondent, writing on Thursday, says.—Mr. Arthur Sinclair, whose Company of Irish Players are appearing before crowded houses at the Theatre, Kilkenny, this week, in a repertoire of Irish comedies and farces, including "Duty" and "Dr. O'Toolo," was called on yesterday by the District Inspector, and informed that the wearing of police uniforms on the stage would not be permitted. The announcement was made last night by Mr. Harry Hutchinson, stage manager, who informed the audicine. that the stage policement would wear tall hats instead of uniforms. "When you see a tall hat," said Mr. Hutchinson, "you will know it is a policeman." The District Inspector also drew Mr. Sinclair attention to the singing of seditious songs by portion of the audicinee during the intervals, but Mr. Sinclair pointed out that he had no centred over the audience.

NEARLY all the Lotus and Delta that used to go to Overseas markets are now being sold in the United Kingdom, with the result that these boots are to-day in far better supply than ever they were before the war. Nevertheless the shops that sell them, rationed ever since July 1916, are unable to obtain unlimited quantities, indeed they cannot, they sometimes say in desperation, get half the number of pairs that they could sall could sell. The shortage is not, however, quite so bad as that, but it is a fact that every would-be purchaser cannot obtain a pair, so Lotus Ltd are obliged to ask women, when they cannot get either Lotus or Delta straightaway, not to order and wait for these particular boots, but to buy some other make.
